MAASTRICHT SCHOOL OF MANAGEMENT

The Maastricht School of Management is a leading provider of management education with worldwide presence. Our mission is to enhance the professional management capacity of professionals and organizations in and for emerging economies and developing countries with the objective to substantially contribute to the development of these societies. This mission is fulfilled through the design of state-of-the-art quality programs on a postgraduate level. Applied management research, combined with global technical assistance and business consultancy, enhances the teaching component. Our objective is to work with mid-career executives that seek further development of their professional competence. They come from governmental organizations, NGO's and private companies from around the world. A high academic standard, applied to a broad international business context, is of central importance. The Maastricht School of Management works on a global scale, with a keen eye on remaining an international and multi-cultural environment. The place of delivery is in Maastricht, The Netherlands, or from our outreach partners, who play a central and catalytic role in achieving our objectives. The Maastricht School of Management's primary focus is on the participants in our programs. We maintain a work environment that enables the employees to develop their professional careers in teaching, research, consultancy and administration.

In 2009, MSM came to an agreement with the University of Maastricht to explore the possibilities for increased collaboration in several fields such as management and governance. This is a major step in establishing a strong education and research structure in the region that focuses on capacity building in developing economies and emerging market economies.
