International Accreditation Council for Business Education (IACBE)
Central Regional Assembly Conference
Conference Theme: New Horizons: (Re)Building Stronger

This Call for Proposals seeks contributors who are interested in conducting presentations, workshops, or discussion forms that align with the conference theme: New Horizons: (Re)Building Stronger

> Many conversations and sessions at the IACBE ACAM this past April centered around how colleges and universities weathered the pandemic and changing political climates (national and international). Some used the changing environment to grow, strengthen, and improve their programs and institutions. In this spirit, the theme for the Central Region Assembly Conference is about demonstrating ways in which students, faculty, departments, divisions, colleges, and universities can use the energy and momentum in times of change and upheaval to grow and improve in order that they may better meet the changing demands on the horizon.

Preference will be given to submissions that appeal to the target audience of our attendees and offer practicable solutions or approaches.

- Application of Business Theory in the Classroom
- Assessment of Student Learning
- Innovative Instructional Strategies in Business Education
- Research
- Retention Strategies
- Student, Career, or Alumni Services
- Other Topics Related to Business Education

Submissions that are not strictly concerned with the area of business education but enhance the knowledge base of our constituents and provide opportunities for idea sharing, will be considered.

Submissions that are received by the deadline will be peer-reviewed weekly as they are submitted and selectees will be notified of the acceptance decisions. Submissions received after the deadline will also be reviewed and accepted on a rolling basis depending upon both applicability and availability.
